

LOST $250,000, DIED IN BOWERY LODGING HOUSE

Harry MacAllister, of Prominent Philadelphia Family,
Ends Life by Gas.

RUINED BY THE PANIC.

Kindly Landlord Will Save
Body From Burial in Potter's Field.

Harry MacAllister, member of a wealthy and socially prominent Philadelphia family, who inherited a fortune of a quarter of a million upon his father's death ten years ago, died penniless from gas poisoning in the Kenwood House, at No. 31 Bowery, to-day. He was forty-nine years old, but looked sixty, his losses in the past year having aged him ten years.

The dead man was a son of a millionaire optician of Philadelphia, and his family now live at No. 122 Pine street, that city. He has three brothers and two married sisters in the Quaker City who are prominent socially.

Had a $2-a-Week Room.
The dead man was gray-haired and of distinguished appearance. He died in a $2-a-week room he had occupied in the Bowery hotel for the past two months. There was not a cent in his clothing, but several bank books and bundles of cancelled checks furnished eloquent testimony of his wilful prosperity.

One bankbook showed that MacAllister at one time had many thousands of dollars on deposit in the Girard Trust Company of Philadelphia. There was a letter showing that he had in his prosperous days refused to offer of $20,000 for a patent ice plant in the South, another showing that he had had a winter home at Pine Bluff, N. C., and a third showing that he had spent other winters on his boat in Florida waters.

Some of the checks, one for $2,500, were made out to J. S. Backe & Co., bankers and brokers, of No. 122 Broad street, Philadelphia, with branch offices in this city at No. 423 Broadway and No. 500 Fifth avenue.

Deal With Brokers.
At the Broadway branch, it was learned that MacAllister had been a customer of the Philadelphia house, where he had done all his trading. Occasionally the Broadway branch had cashed checks for him.

MacAllister had never married. He lived with his kinspeople until seven or eight years ago, when his fortunes began to decline and he came to this city. Until 1896 he was frequently a guest at the Herald Square Hotel, where he was regarded as a man of wealth. He was very quiet and seemed to keep altogether to himself. Before he went to the Kenwood House two months ago he lived with the family of J. C. Seating at No. 79 St. John place, Brooklyn.

McKeon, the proprietor of the Kenwood, notified the coroner after the discovery of his guest's death that he would assume the expense of burying MacAllister.

"I liked the old man immensely," said McKeon, "and will see that his body isn't lowered into Potter's Field. I guess he was all in, and turned on the gas. There wasn't a cent in his pockets."

RUINED BY THE PANIC.

Mrs. J. C. Seating, of No. 79 St. John place, Brooklyn, to whose home MacAllister had all his personal mail addressed, said to-day that she had known him for many years, and that he and her husband were intimate friends.

"He was a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania," said Mrs. Seating, "and a man of culture, where he was have been prominent socially in Philadelphia for many years. He inherited a large fortune during the past few years, however, he had speculated in stocks and I learned from my husband that the panic last October ruined him."

PENN. MACHINE HERE TO WIN THIS STATE

Keystone State Will Give Taft
Record Majority, Senator
Penrose Says

It was Pennsylvania Day at the noon meeting of the Commercial Travelers' Sound Money League, No. 37 Union Square, to-day, the speakers being all prominent Pennsylvanians. Senator Penrose was chairman of the meeting and Gov. Stuart the principal speaker. Then there were hilled for addresses Lieut. Gov. Murphy and Congressman J. Hampton Moore.

Senator Penrose promised that Pennsylvania will give Taft and Sherman a larger majority than any State in the Union, and that the city of Philadelphia will give them a majority as great as any State.

"Feeling that things are safe at home," he continued, "we have come here to aid in saving the great Empire State of New York for the whole Republic's ticket."

The speaker denied that the recent business depression was due to Republican policies and declared that the causes which produced it were world-wide in their nature.

"And," he added, "the only reason that prosperity has not returned before this is because of the fear that by some Duke Bryan may be elected."

BISHOP NOT SERIOUSLY ILL.
PARIS, Oct. 16.—Cortlandt Field Bishop, president of the Aero Club of America, arrived here to-day from Aix-les-Bains. He said in reply to a query about the reports of his illness had been greatly exaggerated.
